

An aerial photograph of a suburban area with a yellow outline defining a large tax increment district. The district is divided into seven sub-districts labeled A through G. Sub-district A is a small area on the right side. Sub-district B is a rectangular area at the bottom center. Sub-district C is a large area in the center containing a school building. Sub-district D is a small area to the right of C. Sub-district E is a large area above C and D. Sub-district F is a large area above E. Sub-district G is a large area on the left side. Dashed white lines indicate boundaries between sub-districts. The background shows a mix of residential streets, commercial buildings, and open fields.
